Seaside High Student Chosen By Bank For Work Experience Program

Robert Montgomery, Manager of UCB's Seaside Office, announced today that Greg Lockridge, who will be a senior at Seaside High School this fall, has been selected by the bank to participate in tis Career Education-Work Experience Program. Greg, who is 16 years old, resides in Seaside. He is a foster child who lives with his guardians who are both 79 years of age.

The program was instituted several years ago by the bank for the purpose of introducing, motivating and inspiring Black students to become interested in the field of business in general and banking in particular.

Beginning in September, 1974 Greg will be employed by UCB for the 1974-75 school year. He will attend high school four hours each morning and work four hours in the bank each afternoon. He will be paid an hourly wage for this work.

"During the nine months of his employment Greg will be given maximum exposure to banking functions", according to Dr. Lawrence B. Wilson, Vice President and Director of Urban Affairs for UCB. Dr. Wilson visited Seaside recently for the purpose of interviewing a number of Black students at Seaside High School who had applied for the program.

Greg will be performing a list of jobs in an ascending order of difficulty and responsibility. Among them are photographing checks, loan platform filing, check pay filing, statement preparation, switchboard relief, credit checking, safe deposit relief, teller relief and referred items assistance.

Mr. Montgomery feels that Greg will be a valuable addition to his staff and is confident that he has the desire, character and personality to succeed in the program.

UCB is the fifth largest bank in the state and the 13th in the nation with 25 offices throughout the State of California.

Consumer Education Conference For Senior Citizens Set

Can you afford to lose 2,000?

In a recent message from the Attorney General's Office, it was pointed out that $2,000 was the average loss in the "pigeon drop", a confidence scheme which nets swindlers about one half million dollars a year in California alone. Since police estimate that five cases occur for every one reported, it means that over 12,000 people are victimized by this crime each year. Because senior citizens are the target victim in 90 percent of these cases, "swindles and confidence schemes" has been chosen as one of the workshops to be included in the "Senior Citizen Crime Prevention and Consumer Education Conference" which will be held Friday, June 14 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Monterey Peninsula College.

Other topics which will be covered include burglary, investment frauds, health gimmicks and quackery, and consumer protection: "getting what you pay for."

For further information, call Dan Smith at Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs of Monterey County, Salinas - phone: 758-3859.

Search On For 102 To High School Musicians

The annual search for this country's outstanding high school musicians is underway with the opening of the 1974 McDonald's All-American High School Band competition. According to Paul Lavalle, director of the Band and the musical director of Radio City Music Hall in New York City, 102 top high school musicians - two from each state and the District of Columbia - will make up the group. 1974 marks the eighth consecutive year the All-American High School Band has been in existence, with new members selected each year. The band is sponsored annually by McDonald's international restaurant chain.

The Band will play and march in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City and in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day in Pasadena, California. Its appearance in both parades will be broadcast on the NBC-TV and CBS-TV networks.

"Since repeat performances in these events are rare, the invitations are a real tribute to the musical talents of the band members," Lavalle said. The Band will also perform a noon hour concert at Rockefeller Center in New York and parade through Disneyland during the California trip.

The group is often called "the band whose pants don't match" because the musicians wear their local high school band uniforms topped off with matching All-American Band overlays and caps.

Each high school band director in the United States - more than 21,000 - has been invited to submit nominations of his two best musicians. Lavalle and members of the All-American Band Advisory Board will make the final selections. The board includes Professor Al G. Wright, director of Bands at Purdue University; George A. Christopher, New York State Music Association, and other distinguished band directors.

In November, when the Band members gather in New York City, they will audition for two Paul Lavalle Scholarships given annually by the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Massachusetts. The grants honor the two top players in the McDonald's All-American High School Band. The scholarships offer full tuition, board and room at the New ENgland Conservatory of Music.

Lavalle said the purpose of the Band is to single out America's outstanding high school musicians and honor them in much the same way all-star teams salute athletes.

Calling band-playing "the greatest sport of them all," Lavalle said, "High school musicians deserve recognition just as much as athletes. Young people make the McDonald's All-American High School Band in the same way athletes make all-American teams -- on performance."

Lavalle has been the nation's foremost band director since 1944 when his Band of America went on NBC radio as a 13-week summer replacement and stayed 10 years. His band was the only one to tour the country for personal appearances since the days of John Phillip Sousa.

Salinas Man Named Regional Consultant To Volunteer Group

Mr. Richard Cummings, 266 San Benancio Rd., Salinas, has been named a regional consultant to volunteer programs in Arizona, Nevada, California and Hawaii.

The National Center for Voluntary Action (NCVA), a private, non-profit service organization, has appointed Mr. Cummings one of ten regional consultants who will serve on a volunteer basis to assist NCVA in providing administrative and training assistance to local volunteer programs. His appointment is a first step as NCVA establishes a national network of 100 consultants designed to use local resources in expanding its services.

Mr. Cummings is the Executive Director of the Monterey Voluntary Action Center. Among other community services, he is Chairman of the Inter-Agency Council and a member of the Monterey County Jail Advisory Committee.

In the next several months, he will recruit and train ten volunteer specialists in this area. When their training is completed and the program is fully operational in the Fall, 1974, the consultants will provide consultation and problem solving assistance to volunteer programs and personnel.

With the other nine regional consultants, Mr. Cummings participated in a three-day planning session this spring at NCVA headquarters in Washington, D.C. In addition to working with NCVA staff in planning the program, the consultants were briefed in the five major categories of services NCVA provides to encourage and assist volunteer participation in community efforts.

These services are: program development, community assessment, public relations, management consulting, and fund development.

NCVA chose its ten core consultants from more than 100 nominations submitted by local voluntary agencies.

Hospital Assessments To Be Reduced

Hospitals throughout the state will be assessed at a reduced rate to support activities of the California Hospital Commission for the 1974-75 fiscal year, Phyllis R. Smith, of Encino, commission chairman, said recently.

Under terms of legislation which created it, the commission's operating revenue is provided by a special fund assessment of not more than .02 of one percent of the hospital's gross operating cost for the previous year. The assessment rate is being cut to .01 of one percent for the coming year. It is payable by each hospital on July 1.

"While hospitals have been paying into the commission operating fund at the maximum assessed rate, expenditure controls have resulted in a surplus that permits us to reduce the assessment," Mrs. Smith pointed out.

The commission is mandated by the Hospital Disclosure Act of 1971 to implement a uniform accounting and reporting system for more than 600 California hospitals--(federal facilities are excepted). The approved system of accounting and data reporting to establish the basis for public disclosure by hospitals goes into effect on July 1.

Robert W. Murch, executive director of the commission, added that state law calls for a reduction in fees when there is a surplus in the assessment fund.

"Computations indicate we'll need only $277,311 in addition to the estimated $425,982 fund balance expected to be available at the end of the current fiscal year--June 30," Murch said. "Based on a forecast of $3 billion in gross operating costs for hospital health care services in the state next year, we were able to reduce the assessment fee," he added.

Governor Ronald Reagan commended the commission for acting to reduce the special fund assessment rate. "This is an outstanding example of how an agency of government can exist well within its means without becoming a burden to the taxpayers," the Governor said. "The commission's ability to meet its obligations under the law and still reduce its special fund assessment rate is a worthy accomplishment and a true measure of responsible government. I congratulate members of the commission and its staff."

Equal Pay Still Not A Reality

Are American women the victims of a sinister male chauvinist plot to keep them chained to typewriters, wearing chastity girdles under their mini-skirts?

Not so, if recent public opinion polls on sex discrimination in employment are to be believed. Equal pay for both sexes is the one issue upon which both sexes agree. However, a gap still exists between the wages paid to both sexes.

California, the largest state in the nation and the 22nd to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, has announced comparative wage figures for the 10-month period ending April 30, 1974.

Richard L. Camilli, Director of the State Employment Development Department (EDD), said, "Although progress is being made toward equal economic opportunity for men and women; in the matter of average hourly wages, it looks as if men are just a little more equal. It's not a case of men receiving more pay than women for the same job; the problem seems to be that more women are filling the lower-paid jobs, fewer women are finding jobs at higher wage rates. This makes the average wage rate for women lower than that for men."

Camilli stressed that the wages in the report were those of 298,000 applicants placed in jobs by EDD between July 1, 1973 and April 30, 1974, and not comparisons of the wages of all male and female employees in California.

Camilli said that of 108,000 female and 190,000 male applicants placed by EDD, about 18 percent of the men were employed in jobs paying $3.40 per hour or more, while jobs at that wage rate were found for only 6 percent of the women.

Average hourly wages for the two groups were $2.64 for men and $2.26 for women, a pay gap of slightly more than 14 percent. In jobs paying $2.20 to $2.49 an hour, 29,000 men and 15,000 women were hired. The number of women hired exceeded the number of men hired in only two pay brackets: jobs paying less than $1.60 an hour and those in the $1.61 to $1.89 hourly range.

The EDD director said the same relationships between men's and women's hourly wage prevailed in the 10-month period ending in March 1974. He noted that no figures were available for the comparable period in 1973 as average hourly wage data based on the sex of the worker was not part of the required federal reporting system prior to October 1 1973.

"Those figures will be available from now on," and we intend to report them regularly. The first thing to do about correcting an inequity is to let people know it exists."

Camilli said the April report shows that women appear to be making some progress at both ends of the wage scale. During the 10-month period ending April 1973, four percent of EDD's women applicants placed at hourly wages of $3 .40 or more. For the comparable period ending April 1974, six percent found jobs at this wage. There was a decrease in the percentage of women placed at the lowest wage. The 1973 figures show five percent were hired at less than $1.60 an hour, while the 1974 placements at this rate amounted to only four percent of the applicants.

Camilli pointed out that employers have been cooperative with provisions of the Civil Rights Acts which specifying sex of applicants when placing job orders. He said women have been hired by private industry as cable-splicers, oil pump operators and truck drivers, while men have been employed as typists and in other clerical occupations.

"It's a start in changing traditional ways of thinking about who does what job," Camilli said. "Although women hear 'you've come a long way, baby', these figures show there's still a long way to go."

Premium books for the Monterey National Horse Show, to be held Aug. 5-10 in Pattee Arena at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, have been mailed to previous exhibitors and are available at the Fairgrounds office in Monterey (P.O. Box 1151).

Again this year, six full days of Horse Show events will be offered and Leslie E. Dixon, Fair Board president, predicts even more participation than the record number of entries last year. The increased stabling made possible by the Horse Show's separation from the Monterey County Fair dates has resulted in a much bigger show than in previous years.

Entries for the 1974 Monterey National Horse Show close June 29.

Frank Jordano of Santa Barbara, Horse Show manager, has lined up an impressive list of judges for the six-day event which is also expected to attract record crowds. Harold Adams of Edmond, Okla., will judge hackney and harness ponies, roadsters, saddle horses, walking horses and saddle seat equitation. Judging the hunters, jumpers and hunter seat equitation will be George H. Morris of Pittstrom, N.J., and the third judge will be Clyde Kennedy of Sun Valley, Ca., who will judge the Western, cutting horse and stock seat equitation classes.

The educational exhibit will be part of a special "Youth Fair" in Pattee Arena, which will also include exhibits and demonstrations by a number of youth groups and entertainment by talented young people of Monterey County.

Carmelo School's exhibit will include a class report in stories and pictures of a May 3 train trip to Oakland and San Francisco.

Schools and teachers all over the County received reservation forms for the educational exhibit, and they must be turned in (or mailed in) to the Fairgrounds office by June 19. The exhibit items will be brought to the Fairgrounds on July 19, unless special arrangements are made.

Reservist Has Two Careers

MONTEREY, CA. — For most people one career at a time is enough. But Owens F. Alexander isn't most people. He has balanced two careers most of his life. Alexander is a captain in the Naval Reserve. He is also the vice president of a large broadcasting company.

In 1942, Alexander was an apprentice seaman. He completed midshipman training at Columbia University and was then assigned to the South Pacific. Until the end of the second world war, he remained in the South Pacific serving aboard P-T boats and destroyers. He was also involved in air-sea rescue operations.

Since the end of the war, Alexander has been recalled to active duty three times. A general line officer, he was the operations officer for the Naval Beach Group, Korea. In another assignment, he served as a project officer for the Secretary of Defense. When the Naval Reserve Training Center at Jackson, Mississippi was established, he was recalled once again to help get the job done.

Alexander kept his reserve commission after World War Two, and returned to civilian life to pursue his second career. Between his tours of active duty, he became interested in broadcasting. While working toward a degree in chemistry at the University of Alabama, he was a radio sports announcer for college football games. Later he moved up to announcing professional baseball games.

With the advent of television in the middle fifties, Alexander became involved in this new medium. He stayed with it. Today he is the vice president in charge of television for the Capitol Broadcasting Company. This Mississippi based firm extends from Colarado Springs, Colorado to Tampa, Florida.

Alexander has not let up on his naval career either. Numerous two week stints with the Reserve have kept him active in the Navy whenever his civilian career allows him to take the time. He feels the time he spends with the Navy is beneficial to both careers. He says that Reservists bring their civilian training and viewpoint to the services, and are in turn given an opportunity for military training, and are exposed to the military viewpoint. He believes that this change of experience and attitude contributes to better mutual understanding.

Alexander was at the Naval Postgraduate School to observe the work of the Educational Media Department, and to make recommendations regarding its activities, especially in the closed circuit television area. This is the first military application of his civilian occupation, since he spent his whole Naval carreer as a general line officer. This is also Alexander's first visit to the Monterey Peninsula. When asked what he thought of Monterey, he said it was "Spectacular."

New Art Exhibit At City Hall

During the month of June the Seaside Art Commission has a graphic exhibit at the Seaside City Hall Gallery. It includes etchings, lithographs and woodblock prints from a private collection, plus etchings of San Francisco and the Monterey Peninsula by Harriet Roudebush. In the display cases Ilah Hurst has ceramics, enamels and jewelry.

The graphic collection includes both modern and traditional. Except for one etching by Salvador Dali, the etchings and lithographs were done by American artists. One woodblock print is over 130 years old and shows an even earlier japan. Others by Mikume use traditional subjects and colors in the modren manner.

Harriet Roudebush has twelve etchings on exhibit. She says she has been drawing since she was a child. After graduating from the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland and the San francisco Art Institute, Mrs. Roudebush worked a short time as a commercial artist doing fashion and store advertising. Later she went into etching and block printing, designing Christmas cards. She had her own line of cards in stores in the Bay Area. Mrs. Roudebush has exhibited in many art shows and has etchings in various galleries in the San Francisco region. She won the Graphic Arts prize at the Bay Fair Plaza Show. A recent Peninsula resident, Mrs. Roudebush has etchings of several local scenes in this show.

Ilah Hurst's father was a Naval Officer, her husband is a retired Army Officer. As a result she studied art in may places.

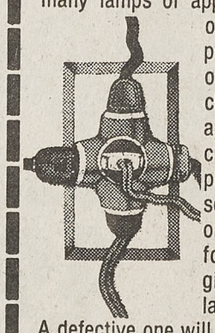
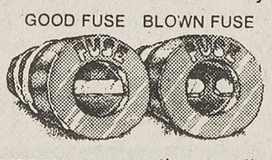
Put these tips and some spare fuses near your fuse box.
With a flashlight, they may help should your lights go out.
Be Prepared. Know where your fuse boxes or circuit breakers are located. Locate the main switch box—usually near the spot where the PG&E electric service wires connect to your house, or near your PG&E electric meter. Locate any additional box or boxes—usually in a closet or utility room. Keep spare fuses handy.

Check the Neighbors. If your lights should go out, check to see if other homes in your neighborhood have lights. If the power is off in your home only, you may have a blown fuse or tripped circuit breaker.
Determine the Cause. Blown fuses or tripped circuit breakers are often caused by having too many lamps or appliances connected to one outlet or circuit. Another possibility is a defective cord on a lamp or appliance. To check, unplug all lamps or appliances on the affected circuit, looking for defective plugs or cords while doing so. Replace the blown fuse or re-set the tripped circuit, following the procedures given below. Then plug each lamp or appliance back in. A defective one will cause the fuse to blow, or circuit breaker to trip, again.


To Replace a Fuse. First turn the main switch to "OFF." Make sure that your hands are dry and that you are standing on a dry surface. Look for the "blown" fuse; the "window" may be blackened, or there may be a visible gap in the fuse element. Replace the blown fuse with one of the proper amperage rating, usually one of not more than 15-20 amps. (Your electrician can tell you.) Never use a penny or other metal object to "bridge" the blown fuse, as this could cause a house fire. Turn the main switch to "ON." If only part of the lights in the house come on, this may indicate that a fuse in a secondary fuse box has also blown. Check these fuses in the same way you checked the fuses at the main switch. Be sure the main switch is "OFF" while you are changing fuses.
GOOD FUSE BLOWN FUSE


Cartridge Fuses. You won't be able to visually tell exactly which cartridge fuse is blown. In this case, test by replacing each fuse with a new one until you find the blown fuse. A tripped circuit breaker will probably be out of the "ON" position.
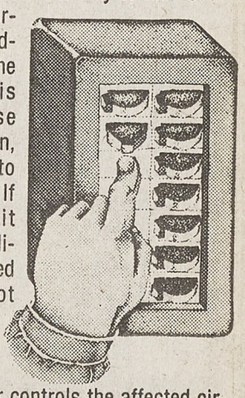
To Reset a Circuit Breaker. Move the affected circuit breaker handle all the way to the "OFF" position (for some circuit breakers, a moderate pressure in the "OFF" direction is necessary to cause them to reset). Then, move the handle to the "ON" position. If the affected circuit breaker does not indicate that it has tripped (its handle has not moved from the "ON" position), and you do not know which circuit breaker controls the affected circuit, try resetting all circuit breakers.


Some Added Safety Tips. Never plug in radios near bathtubs or basins. Never wash coffee pots or frying pans while they are still plugged in. Make sure that electric tools are properly grounded (with a 3-prong plug), or are of the U.L. approved "double-insulated" type. When you unplug an appliance, pull the plug — not the cord.
Still in the Dark? If you've followed all of these procedures and you're still in the dark, don't hesitate to call PG&E. We'll be happy to help.

ARMY RECRUITER

Career Outlook On Military Policemen

Policemen have come a long way from the days of "flat-foots" and "paddy wagon."

Today's police officer is better trained, better educated and better equipped than his predecessor. A battery of sophisticated, scientific and computerized equipment is at his disposal to assist him in the detection and investigation of crimes.

Most newly recruited policemen begin as patrolmen assigned to cover a specific area either by foot or vehicle. They become familiar with conditions throughout their area and remain alert for anything which may appear unusual or suspicious.

From patrolman, a policeman can be promoted to a supervisory position such as sergeant or go into detective work.

Although most of the 370,000 police officers employed in the United States are men, an increasing number of police departments are also hiring women. Women are usually assigned to work with juveniles or in crimes involving women. Most police departments require applicants to have a high school education. Applicants are usually required to pass competitive examinations and meet certain height and weight standards.

Nearly all police departments require candidates to be at least 2l years of age which closes this field to young people coming directly out of high school unless they join the military police.

TODAY'S ARMY military policemen, like their civilian counterparts, patrol designated areas, control pedestrian traffic and protect security sites. They receive their formal training at Fort Gordon, Georgia. After completing their advanced training, they are assigned to the work site they selected prior to enlistment. This can include installations in Europe, Panama, Hawaii or any of the other 49 states.

One of the most appealing attractions to a law enforcement career in the Army is the value municipal authorities place on military police work. They recognize the ex-MP as a well-trained professional with experience far beyond those who wait until their 2lst birthday to join the force.

If you're interested in a law enforcement career in TODAY'S ARMY, contact us at 43l Webster St. in Monterey or call us at 372-4742 for details.

THAT'S IT FOR THIS WEEK:

Kids Invited To Join Magic Reading Club

Seaside children are invited to join the Magic Reading Club at the Emerson Branch branch Library. It will begin the week after school is out, and as soon as a child has read one book he may sign up.

The theme of the club this year is magic, with emphasis on the magic of reading and discovering the special world of books. When a child joins the club, he will be given a Magic Journal in which to write the authors and titles of the books he reads. Since magic is found in all forms of children's literature -- fairy and folk tales, fantasy fiction as well as non-fiction, -- the child may read whatever interests him in his grade level.

Grimm Outlook For Dropouts

Father A. Morgan Tabb, Priest-in-Charge of St. Matthias Episcopal Church, Seaside, the guest speaker at the Seaside Kiwanis Club Breakfast meeting, Tuesday, May 28, predicted a dire gloom for high school dropouts.

A former Juvenile Probation Officer in San Francisco, Father Tabb came to the Monterey Peninsula recently, and assumed his duties at St. Matthias.

As a Juvenile Officer with 29 years experience he pointed out the many set-backs for drop-outs, and stated that a large percentage of the youth who came under his jurisdiction were drop-outs.

He was an assistant supervisor of the combined units (San Francisco City and County) since 1965, carrying a case load as well as supervising the traffic of minors into the California Youth Authority, which included the handling of cases from County Camps of Hidden Valley and Log Cabin Ranch School.

He retired in February at Hunters Point Bayview office where he had been for the past three and one half years.

"While working with many community agencies during these years of service," he said, "both public and private, I realized that poor achievement in school was the forerunner of the development of a delinquent pattern of behavior in the juvenile, both boys and girls, and as a result the chronic truant receives a good deal of the supervising probation officer's attention.

"It is no wonder that the Federal Government in its anti-poverty program has directed a large part of its program to the teen-age "drop-out"..the juvenile who leaves school before graduation and is therefore unemployable as he or she possesses few skills that would make employment possible."

He stated that he had found that many of the delinquent children have done so poorly scholastically at school that by the time they are sixteen years of age they are quite ready to drop out of school, the reason given that they are going to get a job which in their cases is extremely difficult, if not possible, due to their lack of preparation.

"Many cannot even get a messenger's jobs for they cannot read the addresses on the articles they are to deliver, nor the street signs," he said. "Being without a program of either school or work it is no wonder that they become involved in delinquent activity through sheer boordom.

"I have frequently referred to the parable of the Prodigal Son when I have discussed our subject for this evening on previous occasions. But my reference is not so much to the prodigal as the son who remained at home and fulfilled his father's expectations as a dutiful son who was eventually able to succed his father as the head of the estate," he said.

He stated the pattern of family life has been in existence for over 5,000 years for until WW I, the economy of the world was based upon the agrian based family in which children were an important asset to the family. The religious, and the secular calendar were both based upon the workdays of the farm family. The School year, also, vacation time, in our hemisphere the time from June to September, when the young people could be most helpful in the fields.

"The cities have always been the trouble spots with their employment problems, their slums and the high crime rate. The truly stable areas were the farm communities where most people were able to find at least food and shelter and the stronger the rural family the better able it was to survive," he said.

He stated then came the full impact of industrialization and the farm family is no longer profitable for food is being raised on huge factory farms quite profitable with a minimum of labor. "The farm family had to move to the city.

"However, in the city, even if all employable men and women found jobs, child labor laws and compulsory school attendance laws have reduced the teenagers' role to that of the student. Whereas, with the farm family a large number of children was an asset, in the city it means congestion, more expense and the problem of working out a suitable vocation or profession.

"For centuries, the vocation of the father was usually to become that of his sons, but today we find some reluctance on the part of boys to follow the vocation of their parents, unless there is a certainty of a well established awaiting him," he said.

Gas Situation Is Promising

A random sampling of over 500 gas stations in the 45 central and northern counties of California and the entire state of Nevada (membership area of the California State Automobile Association), shows that as of the beginning of June gasoline availability appears to have reached a plateau. The situation shows no significant change from recent weeks. Motorists should not have difficulty obtaining fuel, providing late night and Sunday cross-country driving is held to a minimum.

The outlook for the balance of June is for continued availability, with a promising picture for summer.

This optimism is based on a continuation of the driving practices adopted by motorists during recent months. Should American drivers abandon their conservative driving habits, the months ahead could produce shortages similar to those of a year ago.

Summer motoring plans need not be restricted, if engines are kept well tuned, tires properly inflated, and the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit conscientiously observed.

Board Shows Support For Seaside Stadium

Trustees of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District have indicated that they would agree to maintain a football-track stadium at Seaside High School if a PTA drive to build one is successful.

The board was informed of plans for a stadium fund drive at its meeting June 3. Neil Fearn, assistant superintendent for administration, told trustees the PTA stadium committee is active and enthusiastic and is determined to have the stadium in working order by next fall.

Fearn estimated that the facility would cost around $200,000 unless surplus bleachers can be obtained from Fort Ord. That estimate does not include the costs of lighting which could run in the neighborhood of $70,000 if and when installed, he said.

Trustees also heard a representative of the Substitute Teachers Association of the Monterey Peninsula (STAMP) ask for higher pay and fringe benefits for substitute teachers. John Jeffers said the substitutes want to be paid at the rate of one half of one per cent of the salary of a beginning teacher, or about $40 a day. They now receive $23 daily for short-term assignments and $26 a day for teaching jobs of over 16 days, he said. Jeffers said the teacher group also wants fringe benefits to be provided for all substitutes working over 20 days, plus representation in decision-making groups and preferential treatment when full-time job openings arise.

In other action, the board:

-Approved an early retirem tm plan for teachers, allowing them to retire at 55 if they will contract to work up to five years as a consultant and be paid up to $4,500 each of those years.

- Heard a report on the success of a cultual enrichment program for girls at King Junior High School.

- Voted to write letters of complaint to the Federal Communications Commission and the Seaside City Council regarding the quality of service in Seaside Schools from the Ocean View Cable Co.

- Passed a resolution commending Orville N. Molmen, county treasurer-tax collector, for his diligence in investing school district funds at the highest possible interest rates. His investments earned the district about $100,000 this year, according to Mel Isenberger, business manager.

- Adjourned to Monday nigh (June 10) at 7:30 p.m. when adoption of a tentative 1974-75 budget will be considered.

CDEC Unit Gets New Commander

During colorful ceremonies held at the Hunter Liggett Military Reservation airfield, Lieutenant Colonel David P. McLain Jr., assumed command of the Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC) Experimentation Battalion.

He replaces Lieutenant Colonel David Schwab who reports for duty in Ismir, Turkey.

Lt. Col. cLain comes to CDEC from the Army Training Command at Ft. Ord where he was commander of the basic combat indoctrination group. A Master Parachutist, McLain was commissioned in the field artillery branch as a 1958 distinguished military graduate in the ROTC program at Davidson College, Davidson, N.C.

He and his wife, Matilda, reside at Ft. Ord with their children; Mary, 14; Chip, 10; and John, 9.
